

SALDA

1870

The continuous study and stylistic research evolving around the different expressions of
Made in Italy has led to the creation of

FUTURA

A collection within the collection, a creative story that draws on and celebrates the style of the early twentieth century: Futura was born from an experiment that was at times daring drawing us back to the near past, with the typical Salda know-how of historical continuity capable of gradually assuming different forms.

The aesthetics of the pieces of the new collection range freely over a period of time that covers a particularly intense period from a creative point of view: between the end of the 1930's and the 1950's, boom years of American and Milanese style, a time of the great masters of Italian architecture who contributed to define the stylistic codes of contemporary Made in Italy.
